GEORGETOWN-G. W. U. GAME IS ARRANGED

Extra Match for Old Rivals Next Saturday.

GREAT INTEREST AROUSED

Splendid Spurt of Hatchetites Makes Them Formidable Foe for Blue and Grav.

Arrangements have been completed for another game of baseball between the teams of George Washington and Georgetown Universities. Managers McEnery and Eagan, of George Washngton and Georgetown, respectively, announced today that the two teams announced today that the two teams will play on Georgetown Field next Saturday, May 5.

When the schedules of the Buff and Blue and the Blue and Gray were made out last fall and winter, they contained only one game between the local institutions. For two or three weeks now the managers of the two teams have been endeavoring to arrange another game. The difficulty has been the finding of a suitable time. A short time ago the game between Georgetown and North Carolina in Richmond, on May 5, was canceled, and Manager Eagan informed Manager McEnery that he would be glad to fix a game with him on that date. However, that was the date fixed for the beginning of the Southern trip of the Hatchetites, and It looked as if the proposition would fall through.

Game Badly Wanted.

Manager McEnery was so anxious to arrange the game that he started ne-gotiations with the Virginia Military Institute, with which team the Buff and Blue is scheduled to play at Lexington, Va., on May 5. On May George Washington plays Washington d Lee, at Lexington. Manager Mo-ery has now arranged to play the me with the cadets on Monday yrning, leaving Saturday open for e Georgetown game.

the Georgetown game. This game promises to be the most interesting ever played between the two colleges. Last year George Washington was completely outclassed by the men from across Rock Creek and had no chance of winning. Matters look a little different this year. Despite the poor showing made by the Buff and Blue in some of its early games, particularly those with Lehigh and Syraticularly those with Lehigh and Syraticula

Washington men should be given full credit for this achievement.

To Use Star Southpaws.

George Washington has no games next week prior to the Georgetown contest, and the team will be put through a special training. In all probability both teams will use their star southpaws, Carlton Hutchinson and Larry Drennan. If both men are in their best form the game will be no slugging match.

While it is too far ahead to get the exact line-up, it is pretty certain that Georgetown will play the same men who have been on the team all season, while there will probably be one change in the George Washington line-up. Campbell, the star third baseman of Vanderbilt University last year, has been playing second base on account of a weak arm. His throwing wing has returned now, and yesterday in practice he was shocting the ball across the diamond with great accuracy. Burkett, who is a hard hitter, will most likely cover second.

for a short period, but a questionable decision and three easy infield chances lost the West Enders their last chance. McCathran's work in the box is deserving of much praise. Last year he pitched mediocre ball for Central, and this year stepped into faster company and has, under the instruction of Malachi Kittredge, of the Washington ball team, who coached the Southern school, improved wonderfully. It is probable that he will attend the University of Pennsylvania next year.

Aside from the work of the visiting pitcher, Duggan's home run drive, which sent the sphere over the ditch, was the feature. Smith, at third, was also there with the goods, and accepted his several chances neatly, besides tallying one of Georgetown's runs. The score:

We Are Still Leading American League Race

That is, we have just as much right to lead as anybody else, and as it doesn't cost any more to set the type that way the Washington team is still on top of the pile in the Washington papers. In Philadelphia they persist in putting the Athletics at top, but then, Philadelphia's a bum town anyway and they are likely to do most anything over there.

They were of the kind that although coming fast are sure to bound badly if you wait for them, and necessitate running in and picking them up near the ground. It is not as easy as it looks, but Laporte got away with the play without trouble.

Hughes was all to the good for Washington, but at that, if his teammates had not been there with the willow he would have lost. New York made six hits only, but in each of two innings they came bunched in pairs and netted two runs. However, one of the runs was due to a base on balls.

Elberfeld's Busy Day.

Elberfeld was not given an error in the official score, but he should have one in the seventh inning on Heydon's drive. His day was about as busy as the one Nill had when Boston smothered or brave boys by 19 to 2. About half the italis hit went toward him, and most of them took bad bounds or got on his off side and tangled him. This was a big help to our fellows.

NOTES OF THE NOTABLES

An incident of note was the prompt nd efficacious manner in which Umpire Sheridan put the killosh on the obstrep erous Griffith person. In the fifth inning there was a close play at the plate, and it went to Washington, Dougherty being called our after he looked safe. Griffith made a few remarks, in fact he was preparing to unburden himself of a "whole passel" of language when Sheridan told passel of language when Sheridan told him to sit doen and be-e-e-have. Former bumps from umpires made Griffith take the tip, but in the next round he bobbed up on the coaching lines with some more well chosen words and an aggressive air. Sheridan drove him back to the beach and it's a wonder he didn't chirahim off the grounds.

The decision on Dougherty which aroused the volubility of Grif was rather peculiar. Keeler hit to Nill, who tried to throw him out at first, but the speeds Willie beat it. In the meantime Dougherty essayed to come home from second. Stahl tossed the useless throw-he got from Bill to the plate, but Dougherty got there first, and Heydon also dropped the ball. Heydon fussed around quite a while, finally picked up the ball, and Sheridan astonished the natives by calling Dougherty out. It was a mysterious performance, and the only explanation from Nill to the plate, but Dougherty off the plate all the time that he was dropping the ball and finding it again.

The joyous and unexpected sight of John Anderson stealing home in the sec-ond round gladdened the faithful. Stahl ond round gladdened the faithful. Stahl was on first, and Kleinow and Williams framed up a neat little scheme to induce John to run from third on the throw to catch Stahl stealing. It worked beautifully, except that it went wrong. When Stahl stole Kleinow threw badly to Villiams, and Williams returned it badly to Kneinow, and "Welcome Home John" was safe at the plate.

Charley Hickman had an off day. He fanned twice and contributed nothing to the cause at bat. In the field he

FRIENDS VICTORIOUS IN EXCITING GAME

Friends School defeated the Washingon School for Boys yesterday evening on the former's field, in an exciting Washington. A.B. R. H. O. A. E. game, by 17 to 16.

Hits and runs were frequent from the start, the score being tied at 16 to 16 in the ninth, but Bradley connected with his second two-bagger, sending kenneys home with the deciding tally. In the fourth Britton succeeded White for Washington School and held down the hits of his opponents, but errors on the part of his teammates made his work infective. The score:

Walton, who was in the box for the High School, pitched well, but was not accorded proper support, and the embryo collegians were quick to take advantage of the misplays on the part of the Centralites. Cross, at third for the Preps, played sensational ball, stabbing two drives that would have been clean hits had not the snappy youngster been awake to his position. The score:
